

Mexico had a visit today from two community police officers who brought a police van for us to look inside. We had so much fun watching the blue lights, listening to the siren and sitting inside the back of the van! They even locked Mrs McKnight inside which we found very funny! The police officers answered our questions about their role and showed us the different parts of their uniform and equipment including their walkie-talkies and their body camera they can record with. They told us that alongside protecting us from people who break the law, they also do a lot of work with the local community and are always there if we need to talk or get lost.
